

Advance Care Planning

What is it?

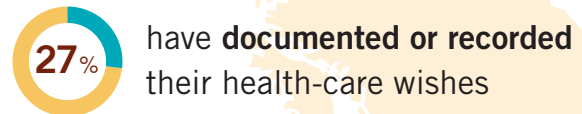

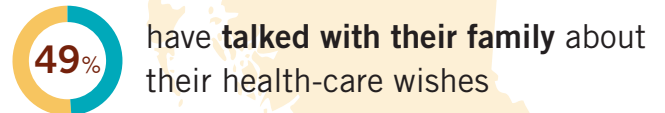

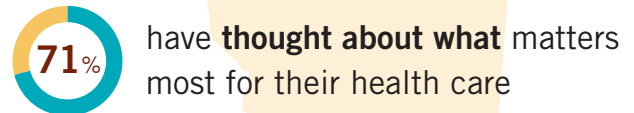

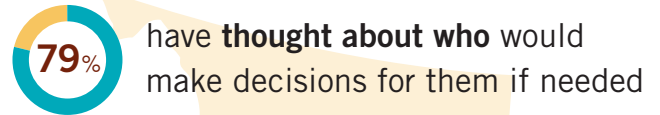

A process where you:

think about and share your values, beliefs and wishes, to support informed health-care decision making that can help you get care that's right for you

Where are we now in BC?

But only 10% have talked with their doctor about their health-care wishes

How do we help people get care that's right for them?

Barriers/Gaps

Solutions

1

Lack of information about Advance Care Planning

Creating user friendly information and resources

2

People are waiting for their doctors to start the conversation

Helping health-care providers start the conversation

3

Limited documentation within the health-care system for patient goals and wishes

Supporting documentation in all care settings

Helping people get care that's right for them

Advance Care Planning (ACP) Initiative

December 2015 - June 2018

Barrier/Gap

Lack of information about Advance Care Planning

People are waiting for their health-care providers to start the conversation

Limited documentation with the health-care system for patient goals and preferences

Activities/Outputs

Creating user friendly information and resources

Helping health-care providers have conversations

Supporting documentation in all care settings

Public awareness

- New My Voice Guide
- Community-led ACP public workshops
- Toolkit of ACP tools and resources
- Public awareness activities

Provider education

- Training workshops for health-care providers
- Toolkit of ACP tools and resources

Quality improvement

- Recommendations for provincial ACP-related policy
- Recommendations for ACP quality indicators

Outcomes

- More public awareness of ACP
- Better ACP information and resources
- Earlier engagement in ACP activities

- More skills in having ACP conversations
- Better integration of patient's goals and preferences into care plans
- Earlier conversations

- More consistency in ACP documentation, storage and data collection
- Better access to ACP documents when needed

Person-centred care for people with serious illness